This three-session workshop is designed for those who want to learn more about the unconscious and how to explore their own dreams. Robert Johnson's book, Inner Work, will be used as a foundation for discussion. The content of this book will enable each participant to search the hidden depths of their own unconscious to find the extraordinary strengths and resources that wait to be discovered there.

Books are available from the Jung Association to be picked up before the first class. If you choose this option, please note and pay with registration.
