“Within every man there is the Reflection of a Woman, and within every woman there is the Reflection of a Man.”

– Hyemeyohsts Storm, American Indian author of Seven Arrows

From a Jungian perspective, masculine and feminine dimensions of the soul are elemental energies that exist in all of us and are on display in art and contemporary social issues. In this final installment of a three-part series on feminine and masculine archetypes, Kathy and John will unite the insights shared in the previous two JACO seminars and guide us further as we attempt to understand and integrate what Gareth Hill calls “the natural flow of opposites in the psyche”.

Drawing on the work of Hill, Marie-Louise von Franz, John Sanford, and Jean Shinoda Bolen, this interactive seminar will explore topics such as the anima and animus, gender identity and expression, archetypal patterns of masculine and feminine, useful models for individual development and how to access archetypal energies for our personal journey to greater wholeness. We invite you to participate in a deep, inspiring conversation. Please bring something for taking notes.

Kathy Cleveland Bull is a highly-regarded speaker, workshop leader, author and coach. In 2014, she opened The Center for Eating Psychology, where she helps clients heal their relationship with food, body and soul. Kathy founded and serves as president for N-Compass Consulting, a speaking and consulting firm helping clients “navigate the art and science of change.” She has spoken on four continents to over 250,000 people. Kathy holds an M.Ed. in Counseling and an M.Ed. in College Student Development from Bowling Green State University. She is also a certified Eating Psychology Coach and a JACO board member.

John P. Schuster is an executive coach and mentor who teaches coaching at the Columbia University Coaching Program. He has an MA in literature and an MA in Psychology/Jungian Studies. John is the author of five books, including The Power of Your Past: The Art of Recalling, Reclaiming, and Recasting and Answering Your Call: A Guide to Living Your Deepest Purpose. He is a board member of the C. G. Jung Association of Central Ohio. His family is in Ohio, and he has four grandchildren in Upper Arlington.
